WILLIAM AND MARY STRENGTHENS HER OUTLOOK FOR THE CUP

Randolph-Macon Receives Stinging Defeat.
Jones, Turner and Metcalf Stars

The William and Mary basketball team handed a defeat to the fast Randolph-Macon quint to the tune of 42-25. The game from start to finish was unusually rough, and numerous fouls were inflicted. For the first ten minutes the locals swept the visitors off their feet, Capt. Metcalf scoring four baskets in rapid succession with exceptionally good team work behind him. Toward the end of the first period, Randolph-Macon tightened up, and showing flashes of team work and individual playing nearly evened up the score, which at the end of the half stood 16-14 in favor of William and Mary.

Capt. Metcalf started the second period auspiciously by scoring two baskets in a few seconds of play. The team work for the locals during the last half was of exceptional order as was evidenced by the fact that the ball was around William and Mary's basket a great part of the time. At times the visitors showed good team work, and kept the locals guessing, but for a brief period.

William and Mary took very few long or chance shots depending mostly on team work, while Randolph-Macon shot from nearly every corner of the field, scoring but one long shot.

The two-men foul was inflicted several times on the visitors, particularly in the case of Capt. Metcalf, who seemed to be so popular that two men clung about him on several occasions and prevented a possible basket. Several times the locals' star captain shot baskets while the visitors struggled to wrest the ball from him.

Turner, the star guard for William and Mary was a tower of strength on defense, allowing his man but one basket. During the six games that Turner has played in, only four baskets have been scored by his "man," which shows that our left guard is "on his job."

Jones played a sensational game from the start to the finish, and seemed to have his opponent baffled by his speed.

Capt. Metcalf was easily the star of the game both on defense and on

WHO'S WHO AND WHY AT THE VENERABLE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM & MARY

Earl Baldwin Thomas was born in the seventh story of a New York apartment house some years ago—exactly how many is something of an enigma. From his appearance one would judge about 12—in reading the products of his versatile pen one would be inclined to treble that number. In short, Thomas is half a man physically and a man and a half intellectually. Be not misled—Tom is far from being a weakling, as attested by his bright football career at William and Mary and up home in the wilds of the metropolis.

Tom realized at an early age that a great man without a hobby is as a leopard without spots. He thereupon contracted a hobby which took the form of an irresistible propensity for poetizing. Long ago—back in the days when Earl inhabited a cradle his mother sat at his side and read aloud to him "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." This aroused Tom's professional pride and he forthwith called to Musie for a pen and paper and began his stormy career in the field of letters. From that time to this he has been penning deathless verse to fair maidens' ruby eyes and azure lips and inscribing immortal idyls to idle idols. Besides being a writer of note Cap. Thomas is also an exponent of the forensic art and frankly admits that he does not advocate the conservation of conversation. Tom has been with us here so long that the memory of the present generation runneth not to the contrary. But unless he mends his ways shortly the faculty is apt to coax him into accepting a degree. How Thomas would fare if thrust into the cruel world without the sheltering wing of his alma mater is a matter of conjecture; how the college would fare without his grouchy philosophy and sunshiny verse is a matter of still greater concern to us.

Tom is one of William and Mary's Beau Brummels. He can wear clothes of the latest Broadway cut and the most fantastic creation in cravats with an air of unconcern that many might do well to cultivate.

Your health, Earl Baldwin, and god-speed to a career so auspiciously commenced.

SCRUBS GO DOWN IN DEFEAT BEFORE THE VARSITY

The Gymnasium the Scene of Two Fast Basketball Games and Exciting Boxing Bouts

The Varsity basketball team had little difficulty in defeating the scrubs Saturday night, February 1. Both sides seemed willing to rough it up and so made the game rather exciting. Capt. Metcalf was easily the star, scoring fourteen baskets, while Zehmer played best for the Scrubs.

The final score was 46-22.

Line-up:

Varsity	Position	Scrubs
Metcalf.....	right forward...	J. Wright
Metcalf (Capt.).....	center.....	Hedwick
Hubbard.....	right guard.....	Zion

Baskets: Capt. Metcalf (14); W. Metcalf (2); Jones (2); Hubbard (2); Turner (2); for the Scrubs Wright (3); Zehmer (5); Addington (4).

Fouls: Capt. Metcalf (2).

Referee, Dr. Young.

Timer, Blitzer.

Following the basketball game were two lively three-round bouts. The first one for lumber championship of William and Mary, Woods vs. Wood. At the end of three rounds of little science and much slugging the referee announced his decision as a draw, though Woods was a favorite with the spectators.

"Buskey" Addison and "Beauty" Maddox gave a more scientific exhibition of the game but failed to mix it up. "Buskey" was awarded the paper decision, despite the fact that the referee declared this bout also a draw.

The Academy basketball team and the Varsity third team finished up the programme of the evening by playing a close and exciting game, the Academy being defeated by a score of 12-9.

Line-up:

Scrubs	Position	Academy
Williams.....	right forward...	Prichett
Scheie.....	l. f.....	Leatherbury
Coombs.....	center.....	Robertson
Griggs.....	r. g.....	Maddox
Stone.....	l. g.....	Land

Baskets: Scheie 2, Coombs 1, Stone 3; for Academy: Prichett 3, Maddox 1. Fouls, Prichett 1. Umpire, Dr. Young.

Dr. T. H. Barnes, a member of the Board of Visitors of the College, has been appointed by Gov. Mann a member of the board of the new Medical College of Virginia.

PRETTY DANCE GIVEN BY YOUNG LADIES OF WILLIAMSBURG

"Girls' German" Very Popular. Many Out-of-Town Guests Present

The most beautiful dance of the season was given in the College Gymnasium Friday night, January 31, by the young ladies of Williamsburg. The Girls' German, as it has become to be known, is looked forward to with pleasure and anxiety from winter to winter by the young savants of the College; this year, as usual, it proved one of the most delightful occasions of the winter. Examinations ended Friday afternoon, so the date of the german was delightfully timed. The strenuousness of the two preceding weeks was forgotten, along with the suspense of results, in the charm of her presence and the strains of the orchestra. Each young man, when refreshments were served, was loud in praises of his partner's delicacies.

A health, say we, to the fair institution! "Long live the girls, and with them their annual german!"

Those dancing were Col. and Mrs. James T. Christian, leading, Dr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Lane, Mrs. Miles with Mr. Ferguson, Miss Barnes with Mr. Koontz, Miss Hall with Mr. Goodwin, Miss Hundley with Mr. John Hundley, Mrs. Mary Henly Spencer with Mr. E. L. Wright, Miss Katherine Geddy with Mr. James, Miss Moncure with Mr. Hubbard, Miss Mary Ware Galt with Mr. Geo. Ben Geddy, Miss Sadie Mahone with Mr. Cooper, Miss Powell, of Hampton, with Mr. Newton, Miss Margaret Roberts with Mr. Nourse, Miss Anne Ruffin, of Weyanoke, with Mr. Tyler, Miss Virginia Peachy with Mr. Jones, Miss Martha Spencer with Mr. Turner, of Newport News, Miss Mary Branch Spencer with Mr. Campbell, Miss Laura Spencer with Mr. Tucker, Miss Beulah Brooks with Dr. Hall, Miss Mary Wilson, of Norfolk, with Mr. Spindle, Miss Nora Macon with Mr. Van Horne, Miss Elizabeth Macon with Mr. Tilley, Miss Sadie Harrison with Mr. Welles, Miss Jetta Thorpe with Mr. Witchley, Miss Inman with Mr. Cox, Miss Garnett Sweeney with Mr. Woltz, Miss Emily Christian with Mr. Walton, Miss Mary Carrington Galt, of Norfolk, with Mr. Turpin, Miss Virginia Edwards, of Surry,

PROGRESS

How justly proud one feels when reflecting upon the fact of one's descent from a long line of highly honored and respected ancestors! But, alas, how prone are some to think that a noble ancestry is, of itself alone, sufficient to raise them to the dizzy heights of success and greatness! Never did a more dangerous belief fasten itself in the minds of people. And in this age of progress this fact is gradually but surely burning itself into the consciousnesses of all those who think. The hustling, bustling, busy world, speaking in unmistakable voice, says: "You shall not climb up to heights attained by great men on their merit as men, over the bones of your dead ancestors; true worth alone counts for success and greatness."

But despite the fact that the tendency thus to place a premium on noble blood is dying out, it is still too prevalent in some sections of our Southland. Even close around us we can find those who maintain, either by word or action, that he who is able to boast of an ancestor that took a city and won laurels upon hard-fought battle fields, or governed a state and sat upon a throne, is, other things being equal, better than he who can boast of no such heritage, yet has lived an honorable, upright and useful life. And what results from such a practice? Laboring under the delusion that those of a noble ancestry are, because of their aristocratic lineage, better fitted for leaders in various vocations than those of humble birth, society continually elevates the "howling aristocrats" to positions of honor and trust; then an extreme pride in a noble ancestry begets a more or less similar pride in old ideas and customs, old institutions and beliefs possessed by their fathers, to which they tenaciously cling, thereby ignoring the fundamental law of human progress—ceaseless and never-ending change. We have but to look about us to see this fact exemplified, and we have heard some lamenting that the old order of things is yielding place to the new. But such is the law of progress. It was so when civilization was in its infancy, it is so today. In fact man's history is but one continuous narration of growth and decay. Destructive in its nature indeed, yet absolutely indispensable to his development!

A noble ancestry insures neither individual nor race progress.

LET THE SUMMER SCHOOL CONTINUE

The question of continuing the Summer Session of the College is being considered now by the Board of Visitors. And before the present week shall have passed we shall doubtless know whether this progressive step, which was taken last year, shall be checked and the old College forced to take a back seat; or whether it shall be approved of and William and Mary permitted to make still greater strides in the educational field.

As all know who are conversant with its history, the Summer School was instituted more as an experiment than anything else. But long before its close its promoters were assured of success. And not only was the venture successful, but it resulted also in establishing two very important facts: first, that there is always a large number of students who wish to do extra work during the summer and will therefore take advantage of the summer session; and second, that the school, placed in Southwest Virginia, is a very efficient means of advertising the work of the College where it is not so well known. This year William and Mary's enrollment is about forty in excess of that of last year, and this large increase is, in no small measure, due to last year's summer school.

The Board will certainly act wisely if they decide in favor of another summer session. Besides accommodating a large number of students who have already signified their intention of attending it if held, it will serve to increase very handsomely the enrollment of the college, which is decidedly one of the greatest needs of the institution. By all means let the Summer School be continued.

Now that examinations are over we can breathe a little freer, and are able to think somewhat more intently upon subjects foreign to text books. The field into which we might deviate is broad and varied, but having the welfare of the old College at heart, we naturally turn to dwell upon existing conditions round about us. It has been suggested, although we had conceived of such a plan before, that The Flat Hat institute a series of editorials which would set forth our opinions concerning the various College problems which now exist and which may later arise. Henceforth, The Flat Hat shall strive each week to give to its readers at least one editorial dealing with some question of interest to both faculty and students.

ELECTION OF TEAM MANAGERS

At a meeting of the Athletic Association, held last Wednesday night, Mr. J. L. Tucker was elected assistant baseball manager for 1913 and Mr. O. W. Frey was chosen manager of the track team.

INFORMAL HOP

An informal hop held in the College gymnasium last Monday night was largely attended. The College orchestra furnished the music for nearly every conceivable style of dancing. One number on the programme was given over to Prof. Tyler's host in the form of an alumni dance.

TRACK MEET

There will be a preliminary track meet on Saturday, the 15th, at 3:30 p. m. Capt. McAllister is working hard to develop a track team and deserves every encouragement, so please come out and do all you can to help him. If you can't run, at least come out and watch the races, anything to show your interest in this new branch of athletics here at William and Mary.

The School Fair Bulletin is now in press and will be issued the last of the month.

BOARD OF VISITORS MEETS

The regular mid-winter meeting of the Board of Visitors begins today (Tuesday) and will continue probably until Thursday. It is understood that a considerable amount of important business will be transacted. The question of continuing the Summer Session of the College will be taken up and decided at this time.

IN-DOOR PRACTICE BEGINS

Coach Young issued a call for battered men to start practicing last week. Several responded, among whom are Shiers, Hedrick, Shackelford, Addington, Allender, as pitchers; and Peachy, Coombs, and Bennett as catchers.

ACADEMY ORGANIZES LITERARY SOCIETY

The Academy student-body met in the chapel Monday evening, February 3, and adopted a constitution and by-laws for the Jefferson Literary Society which is a separate organization from those of the College. There were twenty-seven charter members, and the officers chosen for the first term are: G. W. Booth, president; H. W. Prichett, vice-president; W. C. Lester, secretary; and R. W. Moore, treasurer.

Professors Bloxton, Goodwin and Ferguson have pledged their services as literary critics, one of whom will be present each meeting night. Temporarily this society is meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall, but better accommodations will be provided later.
